MAJORITY OF 11 ON RAILWAY BILL

PREMIER SEXTON IS SUSTAINED IN LEGISLATIVE BY VOTE OF 25 TO 14.

HOW THE VOTE STOOD IN PREMIER SEXTON'S WATERWAYS BILL

Following was the vote on the motion for second reading of the bill to appropriate to the Province the proceeds of the bonds of the A. & G. W. Ry. Co.

AYES: SEXTON, MITCHELL, MCELAN, MARSHALL, CORKINER, WOODF, RUTHERFORD, CUSHING, GUNN, McDOUGALL, PETER, ROYLE, PATTERSON, SIMPSON, HADLEY, SMITH, BENNETT, THOMPSON, CAMPBELL, MCKENNEY, OLIN, WERNICK, McDOUGALL, HOLDEN, GLENDENING, STAFFIER, SEABRIGHT, DEAN, ROBERTS.

Roberts voted with Bennett but both votes were recorded.
O'Brien did not vote.

After a debate lasting over a week a vote was reached at nine o'clock last night on the second reading of the bill to forfeit to the province the proceeds of the bonds of the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway Co. The result of the vote was the count standing twenty-five to fourteen. The bill was tabled on Thursday of last week and its second reading was moved on Friday by the Prime Minister. Since then it has been discussed by C. W. Cross, George J. K. Cornwall, Bramley Moore, A. C. Rutherford, W. F. Puffer, E. Michener and B. Bennett. Premier Sexton and Mr. Bennett each spoke twice on the main motion and on Mr. Michener's amendment.

With the disposing of this portion of the Waterways question the House expects to get down to business next week and advance the bills of which there are a large number awaiting consideration. The estimates will also be tabled next week and the budget speech delivered.

At the evening session last night Mr. Bennett concluded his reply to the Premier. He contended that it was not the duty of the House to say any definite word made in law, in contract, that was a question of law. He repudiated the suggestion that the conservative were responsible for the trouble in the Legislature and alleged that members were responsible for supporting this measure by the hope of getting large contributions in the roads and bridges of their respective constituencies.

This assertion brought George P. Smith to his feet in a point of order. He warmly repented the charges which had been hurled across the House by the junior member for Calgary and asked for the ruling of the Speaker.

Speaker Fisher said that if the assertion was intended as the honorable member for Camrose said, it must be withdrawn, and that Mr. Bennett said he would do.

Grossly Vituperative.
Mr. Bennett proceeding attacked a number of the members for their attitude in assuming that he said was the purport of the court, and entered on questions of law. He challenged them when they returned to their constituents to say that the money they had secured had in fact assisted that it had. His remarks were of the most vituperative kind, and his attacks made a blot upon the speech he had made earlier in the debate.

Upon the conclusion of his speech the members were called for the vote. The division was the same as that given above in the main motion except that Messrs. Puffer and Bennett voted with the government on the amendment.

The bill was set down for consideration of the whole on Monday. Hon. Duncan N. Halliday moved the second reading of the bill to abolish the best water bonus. Mr. Bennett suggested that some changes be made in the bill as it "went down" and discourage a company that purports establishing near Calgary. The new bill will not interfere with his company.

First readings were given to the bill respecting the Alberta Western Railway and to incorporate the Apostolic Synod of the Canadian West. The bill provides for the building of a railway from the C.P.R. at a point between Exshaw and Morley, another by along the valley of the Canadian River and the boundary of the Alberta and British Columbia. The second prolonged the time of a railway company chartered in 1906. Acts to amend the Alberta charter and to incorporate the Waterways and Calgary Suburban Railway were read a second time.

A Complete Answer.
In the course of a brilliant address lasting more than a hour, Premier Bennett in the afternoon answered the criticisms of the Opposition to his bill to forfeit the bonds of the Alberta and Great Waterways Railway Co. He was unanimously applauded by the Government supporters as he scored point after point against the amendment that had just been introduced by the leader of the Opposition. It was the effect that the Government should not use the money realized by the bonds except to build the railway and that it should not be forfeited except by due process of law. The Premier nullified the suggestion of the Opposition which was that rather than avoid a possibility of law, a very remote possibility, the government should rush headlong into a very legal suit. In biting sarcasm he showed the inconsistencies of the legal arguments advanced by Mr. Bennett and his change of front since the last session.

So able was the address that at its close it brought the junior member for Calgary to his feet in a reply, which was not concluded when the House adjourned for a night session. That the Premier had scored heavily was at once made evident in the reply. Mr. Bennett opened with a bitter personal attack on the Premier and his legal business in Calgary before he was called to the chief justiceship. By these tactics he alienated the sympathies of members who had wished to see the question discussed on its merits alone. His speech was largely about the same lines as that of several days ago. He asserted the arguments against the bill had not been answered and with a torrent of eloquence endeavored to effect the intervention that the Prime Minister had made.

Leader of Opposition.
The first speaker of the afternoon was Mr. Michener. The province has been waiting six months for an announcement of policy, he said, and they had looked forward to it with eagerness. It was expected that the Premier would evolve a plan that would suit government supporters and opposition alike. But now he proposed to appropriate the funds of the power to do so without it being given a chance to be heard.

He proceeded to criticize the local ability of the junior member for Calgary, who he said would have been called upon if counsel were necessary instead of going to Toronto, but as an independent instrument from Mr. Bennett to "not that" he changed to the same phrase of his argument.

He continued forcefully, without the second party being given an opportunity to do so and denounced the bill as unprecedented, unwarranted and unjust.

In his closing words he denounced the bill as a crude act of a despotic government, interfering with the authority of power, attempting to do what would not be allowed in any court of justice in the British Empire. He then moved the following amendment to the motion.

The Amendment.
"That all the words after the word 'and' that have been left out of the following substituted therefor:

"The Alberta and Great Waterways Railway company as incorporated by the Legislature of the province of Alberta in the year 1909 and by chapter 16 of the statutes of the province for the same year providing that the said railway company, and bonds to the extent of $7,400,000 were guaranteed by the province and provided in accordance with the said statutes in that behalf the rights, duties and obligations of the province and the railway company being set out and defined by a certain mortgage deed made between the said railway company and His Majesty the King, as presented therein by the then prime minister of the province and the Standard Trust company; a contract made between the said railway company and His Majesty the King as represented therein by the then prime minister of the province and this Legislature is not warranted in depriving the said railway company of the money realized from the sale of the bonds or diverting such money for any purpose other than those for which the same was borrowed and loaned on the condition that such railway company has made default in performance of all or any of its obligations under the said statutes, mortgage, contract and orders in council, unless and until it has been determined by due process of law that the said railway company has made such default and every reasonable effort for the peaceful settlement of the differences between the railway company and the province has been exhausted."

Mr. Headley's Speech.
George Headley in responding to the amendment said he could not yield to any member in a desire to have the Waterways bill ended, but he could not consent to do so in a dishonest method. He couldn't protest on faith alone. He thought some of those who supported the bill should have spoken in its defense.

Premier Sexton on rising was greeted with great applause. He showed the ridiculous position assumed by the Conservatives when contrasted with the Liberals of last session. He told of the approaches that Clarke had made asking after the House had met that the discussion be addressed for a fortnight. Such a request was made in the dignity of the House. There had been an entire misapprehension on the nature of the bill in the minds of some of the speakers. The bill could not give the contract of extension of the road to another company, for then they would have to assume the liability.

Readers Satisfied.
The Legislature had first to wipe the ink from the face of evidence. He had recently talked to a representative of the shareholders and he had expressed himself as perfectly satisfied with the course as outlined in the bill. The Premier said he had lived in Alberta for many years and as he had not changed his heart with him he would not to any one else in the province more than himself. It was his policy in the future to develop both northeast and northwest of the province. The Premier closed with a reference to the members for Calgary and said that his objection to certain railway projects would be the best testimony that the province could have as to their worth.

LAYMEN'S MISSIONARY MOVEMENT WEEK HERE

Headed by Dr. Mackay, group of Missionary Officials Will Hold Meetings in the Presbyterian Churches in the Twin Cities—Bunquets in Two Churches.

The first three days of the coming week are to be somewhat special in the Presbyterian churches of this city. They will be Laymen's Missionary days, and a number of the leading workers and speakers in the movement are coming to take part in the exercise of Sunday and the two days following. The plan of dramatizing national rallies is being followed this year by the laymen throughout Canada, and the turn has now come for the Edmonton Presbyterians.

The visitors to the city will be Rev. Dr. H. P. Mackay, secretary of foreign missions for the Canadian Presbyterian church; Rev. F. W. Anderson, secretary of the Laymen's Movement, Presbyterian department; Rev. George Ross, a missionary to China; and Messrs. George Dugdale and T. Humphries, of Calgary. These gentlemen will have placed in the city three days' programme, and inasmuch as they are all experienced speakers and workers are touch with the aims and aims of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, some interesting and edifying meetings may be expected. Dr. Mackay is one of the best-known churchmen in Canada; a lifelong worker in behalf of missions, and personally acquainted with the mission fields of the Orient. His addresses are always of the highest quality. Anderson is a leader and organizer of acknowledged ability and has a better grasp of the situation regarding his own denomination than perhaps any other minister in the West. Ross from the foreign field is full of things that he knows as a matter of actual experience.

The services for Sunday in the four Presbyteries of the city will include addresses by these visitors as follows: Knox church, morning, Rev. F. W. Anderson; Robeson church, morning, Rev. Dr. Mackay; Breckenridge church, morning, Rev. G. Dugdale; First church, evening, Rev. F. W. Anderson; Knox church, Stratcona, evening, Rev. Dr. Mackay. Mr. Ross will also speak at Namsco in the afternoon and evening.

On Monday evening a missionary banquet will be held in Westminster church, and a mass meeting in Robeson church on Tuesday evening. A banquet in First church, and a meeting in Knox church, and on Wednesday evening a meeting in Knox church, Stratcona. These will be followed by two or three of the visiting clergymen and laymen, and the interest and enthusiasm have been invariably marked. The gathering of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in the West are anticipated. Further, Ross, Dugdale and Anderson are also included in the circuit and will probably take part in addition to those announced.
